Northwestern State University seeks an experienced individual to fill the position of Web Applications Developer.

Responsibilities include but are not limited to: Analyzing needs, designing, developing, and maintaining complex web applications. Preference will be given to applicants with the following qualifications: A solid understanding of web programming and related technologies is required. Demonstrated ability to perform feasibility studies, programming analysis, determine alternate program design approaches and facilitate the most effective solution to meet user needs. Skills in HTML, XML, DHTML, SQL, JAVA/Script, ASP.NET, VB.NET, Visual Studio Development Environment, COBOL, Crystal Reports, digital certificates and signatures, RDBMS (in particular Microsoft SQL and Access) to include relational database design, stored procedures, triggers, Transact SQL (T-SQL), Comprehensive knowledge of HTTP, Microsoft IIS and the ability to work with minimal supervision handling multiple tasks with sometimes competing priorities in a sometimes intense, team-oriented, service-driven environment. Candidates will be expected to present a portfolio of web-based applications to include demonstrations and a discussion of methodologies and techniques used in the developmental process.

Applicants must submit a letter of application, a current resume, and 3 references to:

Dr. Jim McCrory
Director of NSU Information Systems
200 Roy Hall
Northwestern State University
Natchitoches, LA 71497

Position opened until filled. Interviews begin immediately. Requests for additional information or electronic submissions of application may be sent to: mccrorry@nsula.edu

Northwestern State University is an equal opportunity employer. Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply.